Nevada Grand Jury Indicts 33 in Final Report This Week

Officials Complimented For Co-operation with Body

NEW PROSECUTOR

Miller Alford, Newly Elected Prosecutor Holding First Court

PRESCOTT—The grand jury of this January term of Nevada county circuit court rendered its final report and was discharged late Wednesday. The jury, which began its work Monday, returned 33 indictments after examining 59 witnesses.

A report of no bill was returned in the case of Buster Westmoreland, who had been held under a charge of manslaughter in connection with the automobile accident which occurred several months ago near Roston in which John Ward and Bud Lewis were killed.

The jury also failed to return indictments on the charges filed against Arthur Dougan, Johnnie Bizzell, Lotta Voss, Floyd Freeman, Oscar Redick and Roy Bounds.

The report complimented County Clerk Arlice E. Pittman on the efficient and orderly manner in which he conducts and keeps the records in his office. Prosecuting Attorney Millard Alford, Sheriff E. H. Weaver, and Circuit Clerk Clarence Marsh were also complimented and thanked for the performance of their duties.

Indictments which have been made public are as follows:

Rosevelt Bryant, burglary; George Ware, manufacturing liquor and possessing same; Willie Bragg, negro, murder in first degree; Fred Scott and Ernest Holly, burglary and grand larceny; Eva Smith, selling liquor; Sylvester Reese, incest; Sylvester Reese, carnal abuse; Tolly Woodberry, J. P. Jackson, Willie Woodberry and M. C. Gilby, burglary and grand larceny; two counts; John Shepard, Berry Dockery, Elvin Pickens and Chas. Gilky, burglary and grand larceny; Lois Blankenbush, manufacturing liquor and possession of still; Clem Smith, manufacturing liquor, making and possessing same and possessing still; Elmer Tuttle, making liquor, making and possessing same and possessing still; W. E. Middleton, making liquor and possessing still; John Wither, murder in first degree; Louis Purifoy, murder in first degree; Jess Butler, grand larceny; Lester Lee, assault and attempt to kill; Charlie McClelland, assault with intent to kill; Shelton Wicker, grand larceny.

The court is working on its civil docket this week, and all criminal cases are set for next week. A suit against H. F. Helton, editor of the Nevada county Picayune, in which Will Hughes of Pike county sought to recover $10,000 on alleged slander and false arrest, resulted in a jury verdict for the defendant.

Counsel for plaintiff filed motion for a new trial immediately after the verdict was rendered, but the plea was denied by the court. Notice of appeal was then given.

Carideo's Bride? "Just a Joke"

When Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's all-American quarterback, was told that his engagement to marry Miss Nona Quintero (above), Hollywood movie actress, had been announced in the film capital, he branded the report as "a cheap attempt to get some cheap advertising," adding, "I got to be cautious, and this is what I got." Miss Quintero, in Hollywood, then said that the whole thing was "just a practical joke."

Loud Speakers Are Planned for School

Only One Other School in the State Has This Convenience

Hope's new $123,40 high school building, for which the contract was let Wednesday to J. M. O'Neal will have a microphone in the superintendent's office with loud speakers in classrooms if present plans are carried out. Only one other school in Arkansas has this convenience. A master clock in the hall with a gong attachment also is planned.

Besides class rooms, there will be a cafe, gymnasiums for both girls and boys, large auditorium, library, science department and laboratories.

The materials used in this building for the exterior will be face brick, stone and reinforced concrete. Stone windowcasings will be used in the corridors.

This building will be located at the end of South Main street on 10 acres of ground, with an athletic field adjoining.

Row Over Hogs Causes Shooting

Jess Webb, Farmer of Lawrence County, Suffers Serious Wounds

WALNUT RIDGE—Tommy Baird, aged about 25, young farmer of the Mt. Zion community, Friday shot and perhaps fatally wounded Jess Webb, young farmer of the same neighborhood.

Webb, suffering intensely, was brought to local physicians, but was taken at once to the hospital at Jonesboro.

The charge from a shotgun took effect in Webb's hand and body. The shooting is said to have been caused by a dispute over the impounding of hogs. Following the shooting, Baird came to Walnut Ridge and surrendered to Sheriff W. E. Archey.

Steaming Radiators Help Students Get Education

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(U.P.)—The struggle for education has forced University of Iowa students in some cases to prepare their food over hot radiators in their rooms, according to an inquiry made by Robert E. Riewen, dean of men.

One case was found in which a student spends an average of 12 cents a meal, which provides him with energy enough to carry a full scholastic schedule and work four to six hours a day at heavy labor.

New High School Is Described to Rotary Luncheon

F. N. Porter, Local Architect, Goes Over Plans for Building

700 IS ITS CAPACITY

Auditorium to Seat About 1,000—Radio in 18 Classrooms

Hope's new high school building, construction on which will be started this month by Contractor J. M. O'Neal of this city, was described to the Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow by F. N. Porter, local architect. Mr. Porter produced floor plans and a sketch of the building's exterior by the school architects, Petter & McAninch, of Little Rock.

The building will face west, on South Main street and the Lewisville highway, at Main and Sixteenth streets.

It will house the senior and junior high school students, from the seventh through the twelfth grades, and when it is completed the old senior high school—the Garland building, at Fourth and Washington—will be abandoned, and the new junior high school building on Fulton road will probably be converted to a grade school, 600 to 700 students.

The new high school building will accommodate from 600 to 700 students, will have a large gymnasium, and an auditorium seating probably 1,000 persons.

"The exterior of the building," said Mr. Porter, "will be simple and neat, I should say that for beauty and general design it is probably 25 years ahead of anything in this part of the country."

A basement under the left wing of the building will house a boiler-room, furnishing steam heat; a kitchen, but with no provisions as yet for a dining room.

The first floor has the gymnasium in the left wing, with corridors and classrooms in the center, and the auditorium in the right wing.

The second floor comprises classrooms exclusively; and on the third floor are the commercial department and science laboratories.

The building is to be in the shape of the letter H. Its overall length is 29 feet 8 inches, and overall depth, 25 feet. The center block, exclusive of wings, will measure 17 feet 6 inches in length by 52 feet in depth. The center is of fireproof construction, with the wings of slow-burning type of material. No wood is to be used, except for doors.

A central radio receiver is included in the design, with loud-speakers in every room. A master-clock will furnish correct time to each room also. There are 18 classrooms.

Mr. Porter gave an interesting account of the soil-tests which were conducted at Sixteenth and Main to make sure of a solid foundation. Considerable trouble has been experienced with local soil, causing the foundations of many buildings to warp and crack.

"Mr. McAninch, of Petter & McAninch, and I conducted a number of tests," Mr. Porter said. "We put pressure on an area of ground 12 inches square, submitting it to 1,000 pounds the first hour, and adding 1,000 pounds every hour for 24 hours."

"The first area we tried showed a sinkage of 2 5/8 inches under 1,000 pounds the first hour. We abandoned this."

"We next tested two areas, which showed, under 12,000 pounds pressure, sinkage of only 3/16 and 1/8 inches respectively—which gives us every assurance of a good foundation soil. We found this at a depth of 4 1/2 feet, the soil proving to be of pipe clay."

Besides Mr. Porter, the guest speaker, who appeared on a program sponsored by Pat Duffie, there were the following other guests at the luncheon Friday: Harrison Sheppard, of Hot Springs; and D. E. Fletcher, of Hope, new manager of Montgomery Ward & Co.

Catches Robber at Filling Station

Identified as One Who Robbed Store at Prattville

SHERIDAN—(A.P.)—H. H. Atchley, a filling station operator, Friday captured Robert Wucherfingh, with what officers said he had taken a short time before from two stores, at Prattville near here.

The prisoner and two other men stopped their car at the Atchley station and were trying to break the lock on a gasoline pump, when Atchley appeared and captured one of the trio.

Radio Adviser on Love Being Sued for Separation by Wife

NEW YORK—(A.P.)—Professor Arthur Frank Payne, psychologist, who tells Sunday radio audiences how to live and love, is being sued for separation by the woman to whom he has been married 33 years.

Mrs. Payne's suit became known Thursday when Supreme Court justice Callahan awarded her $125 a week temporary alimony.

Professor Payne, a member of the faculty of city college and the Rockefeller School of Vocational Training, let the alimony award go by default, but announced through counsel that he intended to fight the suit.

Home Life Policies Are Believed Good

State Commissioner Floyd Issues Letter to All Policyholders

Policyholders of the Home Life Insurance company, of whom there are many in this section, received a letter this week from W. E. Floyd, insurance commissioner for the State of Arkansas, declaring that in his opinion the Home Life policies are secure, and advising policyholders to stand by their investment in that company.

The Home Life was the only one of the insurance and banking companies under the management of A. B. Banks & Co. to weather the financial storm following the crash of Nashville & Co. investment house of Nashville, Tenn.

Commissioner Floyd's letter to the Home Life policyholders follows:

"As the state official in charge of insurance matters in Arkansas, I have during recent weeks been in close touch with the affairs of the Home Life Insurance Company and am gratified to be able to say that, in the opinion of this Department, the policyholders are secure and the company is entitled to the confidence of the policyholders."

"It is my opinion that the interests of the policyholders of the Home Life Insurance Company are amply protected and safeguarded and that any policyholder should be very hesitant to listen to anyone who might advise transferring, lapsing or replacing a Home Life policy. Any insurance agent advising a policyholder to transfer a policy from one life insurance company to another must be regarded as doing so from a selfish motive and not for the best interest of the policyholder. Such practice on the part of an agent is condemned by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, by the laws of the State and by the rules of this Department."

"Signed: W. E. Floyd, Insurance Commissioner."

A. & P. Co. to Open Store on So. Main; First in Arkansas

New Hope Store Will Be Opened February 15—Lease Signed Friday

REMODELING BEGUN

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. Largest Grocery House in World

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.—oldest and largest grocery and ice concern in the world—will open a store in Hope about February 15. The closing of a long-term lease by the A. & P. company on the store building formerly occupied by the McClellan Hardware company, on South Main street, was announced Friday by W. Kendall Lemley, attorney. The property is owned by Mrs. Lemley.

The lease was negotiated by the real estate department of the A. & P. company, from the Southwestern district office in Dallas.

So far as is known here this is the first Atlantic & Pacific store to be opened in Arkansas. The A. & P. company operates in Texas and other territory adjoining Arkansas, but there are no stores of record in this state. Whether the new Hope store is to be the forerunner of other proposed locations in Arkansas could not be learned Friday.

Considerable remodeling will be done on the Lemley property to prepare it for the A. & P. store. J. W. Booth, local contractor, will begin work Saturday morning.

The remodeling is to be completed about February 1 as possible, and fixtures and standard store arrangement of the A. & P. company will be installed between then and the opening date February 15 by the company's own crew.

Fertilizer and Brick Factories Speed Up

Additional Employment Furnished By Local Industries as Orders Pour in for the New 1931 Business

Sings of increased activity among Hope's industries were evident Friday with resumption of manufacture at the Hope Fertilizer company's plant, and announcement of a large order that was received this week by the Hope Brick company.

Ten extra men were put to work this week by the fertilizer company, it was announced by W. Y. Foster, president.

The fertilizer plant, after the seasonal shutdown of summer and fall, is now working on a production schedule of 100 to 110 tons of fertilizer daily. The plant resumed operations Wednesday, January 7, which is about normal for the beginning of spring fertilizer production, according to Mr. Foster.

Fertilizer production will continue to at least May 15 on the present schedule. The Hope company sells its product principally in four states, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas; and resumption of production for the 1931 season will furnish employment to a large staff of salesmen and fertilizer handlers.

From the Hope Brick company Friday noon came the announcement by N. F. O'Neal, president, that this company, one of the important brick plants of the state, had obtained an order for 1,000 tons of chimney-tilt.

The order reached Hope by long-distance telephone from New York City.

This one order will amount to 30 railroad carloads, and the Hope Brick company plant is now engaged in filling it.

Bulletins

BALTIMORE—(A.P.)—Six armed men held up the employees of the Commercial Savings Bank early Friday, seized cash estimated at $15,000, and fled in an automobile. No trace of them had been found at noon.

LITTLE ROCK—(A.P.)—Victor H. Siebert, Friday was appointed receiver for the telephone exchanges, ice plants and four power and light plants operated by the Commercial Utilities company and the Peoples Public Service corporation.

JONESBORO—(A.P.)—Orville McDaniel, 26, a farmer, was found dead at his home Friday with a bottle of poison by his bed side. He is survived by his widow.

Nashville Plans New Small Bank

Will Assist in Liquidation of Planters Bank & Trust Co., Newspaper Says

NASHVILLE, Ark.—This city is virtually assured of the organization of a new small bank which will discharge the double duties of furnishing banking facilities for Nashville and assist in the liquidation of the suspended Planters Bank & Trust Co., the Nashville News said Friday.

It is planned to operate the new bank in the building of the Planters Bank & Trust Company, the new bank to assist in the liquidation of the assets of the closed institution in such a way as will be very economical for the new institution and the old.

In the meantime, Dr. J. S. Hopkins, well known local citizen who was approved by the depositors as liquidating agent for the Planters Bank & Trust Co., at a mass meeting here last week, received his commission as deputy bank commissioner Wednesday.

Dr. Hopkins, who has taken charge of the closed bank, issued a statement to depositors in which he said he believed the assets of the bank should be liquidated in an orderly manner, so that depositors and creditors may realize the maximum value on their claims. George R. Steel has been named attorney for the liquidating agent.

The new bank which is being organized to operate in the building of the Planters Bank & Trust Co. is not proposed as a large institution at the start because of the present condition of the country, it will be founded on a policy of the utmost service to the community, and with the ability to grow to larger proportions as time may require greater banking facilities.

The list of those subscribing to the stock of the new institution was not available Thursday, but it includes some of the most substantial citizens of this section, and its personnel will be such as to inspire the confidence of the people, even under the present strenuous conditions.

During the time Nashville has been without a bank, the need of banking facilities has been greatly felt by all the people of the community, and it is certain that the new institution will be so safeguarded as to be a very sound institution from its very beginning.

Although the new bank will in a way be operated in connection with the liquidation of the old bank, there will be nothing that will fasten any of the liabilities of the old bank on the new institution.

Fuel Problem Solved

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(U.P.)—The winter fuel problem was solved for many low householders recently when the Turks Head Coal Company's coal pockets were razed. One thousand truck loads of wood were given to persons who were willing to cut it away, section.

County Poultrymen to Elect Officers

Regular January Meeting of the Association on Monday Night

The regular January meeting of the Hempstead County Poultry association will be held Monday night at the city hall in Hope.

At this meeting the election of officers for the year 1931 will take place. The entire membership of the association are urged to be present at this meeting, for it is one among the most important of the year.

The poultry association in Hempstead county was formed a little more than a year ago. Since this organization was founded a marked improvement in the poultry flocks in the county have been noted.

Meeting a Depression

VALUABLE suggestions for work by which individual cities can help to mitigate the effects of unemployment are contained in a bulletin recently issued by the Russell Sage Foundation after a study of conditions in previous unemployment crises in 50 American cities.

This bulletin begins by emphasizing an obvious but often ignored truth: that the time to begin planning for unemployment relief work is two or three years before a depression arrives. It wisely remarks that "unwillingness to admit that the times are getting bad should not be allowed to prevent that timely planning which often makes the difference between order and chaos later on."

On the other hand, it is urged that a community take care not to let too discouraging reports be broadcast, lest normal credit channels tighten up, unemployed people conceal savings and resort to relief centers, and jobless folks from other communities come in in the hope of getting easy help. And certain definite suggestions follow, as possible:

Existing relief and welfare agencies should be expanded, instead of starting new ones.

Local residents should have preference in employment, and only those who have registered for employment should be considered.

That emergency committees should use their influence against wage reductions, even though individual earnings may have to be lowered through part-time work.

That every firm in a position to do so should assure its workers that their jobs are secure, so as to prevent fear and the unnecessary hoarding of funds.

All of these suggestions are extremely sensible. To our mind, however, the best part of the report is its prefatory statement that programs of this kind should be mapped out ahead of time, before depressions come. That is the sort of thing in which both city and national governments have been almost criminally remiss in the past. Once this depression is over, we should plan how we are going to meet the next one.

Contrasting the News

UNFORTUNATELY it is the ill happenings that makes the comment among the people, that makes the incidents most discussed, that makes the news, if you get exactly what we mean.

If some hunters go out fifty times and nothing unusual happens that is no news. But if one of them gets shot in the leg or the head, it becomes a lot of news.

Sunday morning the people of Arkansas were told the story of the uprising of 300 farmers, or tenant farmers, near England, Arkansas, who demanded food for themselves and their families, and the incident was news.

Monday morning there was an article in a Little Rock paper on the back page, and with a one line head over it, which told that 1,150 shopmen, former employees of the Missouri Pacific shops in North Little Rock, who had been idle since December 12, were returned to work. That is a lot of men going back on the job. It isn't often that 1,150 men who were idle, are back at work overnight. But it didn't seem to be such news that it was given unusual attention.

There was plenty of attention given on December 12 when these 1,150 men were out of work.

We can not change or alter customs, but we can look on the other side a little bit.

It is a fine thing for more than a thousand men who had been idle to get back to work.

Most every day in some small way we see where forces are being returned to the work bench. There isn't much to do about it in headlines, but it is happening all the time.—Hot Springs Sentinel-Record.

Odd Jobs to the Rescue

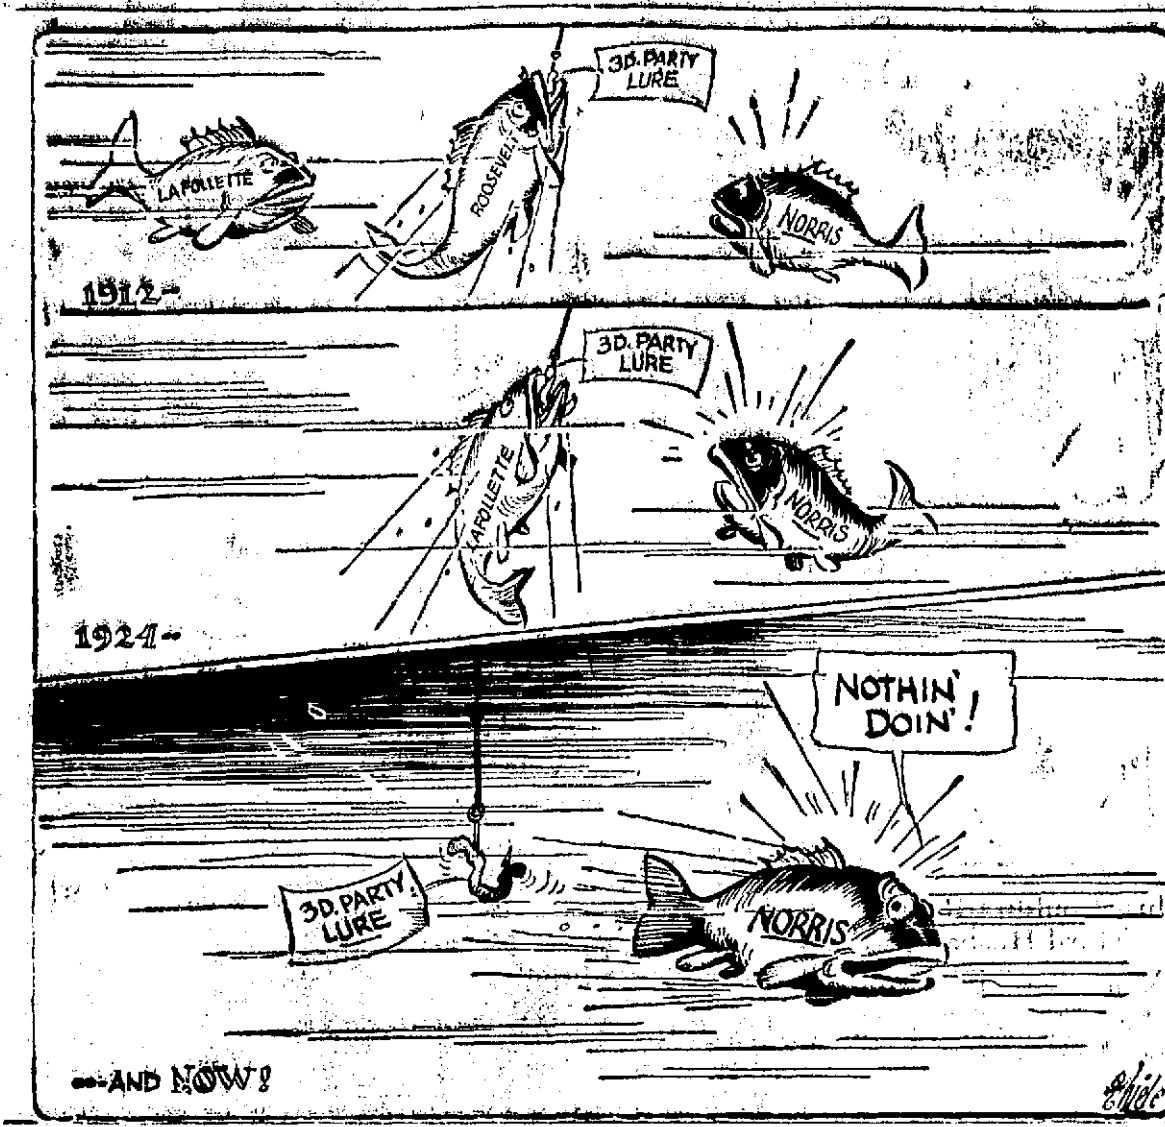

WHILE governments, welfare agencies and countless committees and commissions all over the world are working to "equalize the impact of the disaster," to use the phrase of Owen D. Young in connection with the present unemployment situation, there is much which citizens themselves may do to help, says the Christian Science Monitor.

Of course, the best way in which an individual can help unemployment is to provide employment, but not all can do that. The next best thing to a steady job is an odd job. And think of the millions of odd jobs the world over which need doing right now! Indeed, the sum total of all the odd jobs needing to be done in households, factories and business houses would make a substantial contribution to the relief of unemployment.

As unemployment casts its shadow over homes in every land each citizen might well consider carefully the possibility of offering temporary employment in connection with his home or place of business. There are nearly always odd jobs waiting to be done about the house and its grounds: painting, interior and exterior; extra cleaning; minor repairs; the cleaning of cellars and attics; the disposition of accumulated obsolete goods and articles; the building of driveways; weather permitting, the improvement of grounds.

Also, owners of factories, office buildings, and other structures usually postpone minor alterations, painting, small repairs, and general cleaning up, inside and out, and the improvement of grounds and approaches, to a time when business will be slack. That time has come. This is the great opportunity for odd jobs that need doing. —Canadian News.

Mrs. John Barrow of Ozan was shopping in the city Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Robinson have returned from a few days visit with relatives and friends in Little Rock.

The John Cain Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held a most interesting and enthusiastic meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Talbot Field, West Division, with Mrs. Chas. Daynes as joint hostess. During the business session plans were formulated for a party to be held on February 12.

The Elks Club, celebrating the first anniversary of the John Cain chapter, held a very interesting and instructive program. Roll call responses were the names of a president and his residence. Miss Mamie Twitchell read a most interesting article entitled "What Uncle Sam is doing for World War Veterans," and original poem was read by Mrs. C. E. Royston of Fulton, vocal solo by Mrs. Talbot Field, followed by a sketch of the life of Robert Morris by Mrs. Wilbur Jones of Ozan. Mrs. Jones read the greetings from the President General and Miss Catts closed the program with a very interesting and instructive lesson on the flag. Mrs. J. A. Henry thanked the chapter for a beautiful calendar, that they had recently presented to the city library. The hostesses served a delicious salad plate. Guests for the afternoon were Mr. R. A. Beaton of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. J. A. Henry.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pat Casey had a dinner guests Thursday evening at their home on North Elm street. Hugh Jackson and Mrs. David M. Watts of Texarkana and Mrs. Julius M. Tidwell of New Boston, Texas.

The Hope Library will be open at 2:15 this afternoon. A story hour for the juveniles will be conducted by Miss Florence Risdon. All interested boys and girls are cordially invited.

Mrs. Ralph Roulen was hostess Thursday afternoon to the members of the Thursday Bridge club and a few special guests. The rooms were bright with the season's flowers and attractively arranged for two tables. Guests other than the club members were Mrs. Lloyd Spencer, Mrs. Finley Ward and Mrs. J. L. Meyers, with Mrs. Spencer scoring high. Following the game, the hostess served a most tempting two course luncheon.

The employees of the L. C. Burr Co. entertained at bridge last evening at the home of Mrs. Q. McAdams, as special compliment to Mrs. Frank Russell who has been the popular manager of the ready to wear department since the opening of that company in this city. The rooms were decorated with the season's flowers and bridge was played from three tables. The high score favor went to Otis Langston. The honoree who has covered her connection with L. C. Burr & Co. to accept a like position with the Burr Store, was presented with a shower of beautiful handkerchiefs. After a series of pleasant games an attractive sandwich plate was served with hot chocolate.

A most delightful farewell party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Cochran, last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Young on South Hervey street. Mr. and Mrs. Cochran, who have spent the past year in our city left today for their new home in Little Rock. Bridge was played from three tables, with Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Neighbors scoring high. The honoree were presented with a handsome piece of silver and following the game delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. W. H. Hutchinson was hostess to the members of the Wednesday Contract Bridge Club and a few special guests Wednesday afternoon at her home on South Elm street. Two prizes were given for high score. Special guests were Mrs. Lloyd Spencer, Mrs. Billy Duckett and Mrs. Richard Allison. Following the game the hostess served a most tempting salad plate.

The members of the Board of the Julia Chester hospital are having a Sewing Bee Friday at the home of Mrs. Arch Moore on West avenue B.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Herndon went to Little Rock Wednesday for a brief visit. Mr. Herndon is attending a state convention of undertakers and embalmers.

War on Star Fish Aids Mass. Unemployed

WAREHAM, Mass.—(U.P.)—Wareham, one of the biggest scallop producing ports along the New England coast, helped solve the local unemployment problem during recent months by granting a bounty of $1 a bushel on star fish, which prey on scallops. One young man came ashore with 50 bushels of star fish as a single day's catch. The bounty seekers averaged about 150 bushels each week.

Campus Population at Ohio Cosmopolitan

COLUMBUS, O.—(U.P.)—The campus population of Ohio State University this year is one of the most cosmopolitan of any university or college in the United States, according to a recent survey. Ohio State boasts of students representing 22 foreign lands and all but five of the 48 states. The total enrollment was said to be nearly 11,000. Six foreign countries have students in the current registration, which were not represented last year. They are Spain, Russia, Chile, Norway, Liberia and Haiti.

Babies Lead Death in Race at Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(U.P.)—More babies were born and less persons died this year in Buffalo than in 1929. Health Commissioner, Francis E. Franczak announced that there were 6,575 deaths in Buffalo, for the 11-month period ending Nov. 30, 390 less than the same period in 1929. He also said that 24 more births were recorded for the same period, 10,684 babies being born during 1930.

Just Couldn't Recall Third Husband's Name

Seattle.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Helen Hansen was granted a divorce from her fourth husband, William Hansen. She was asked the name of her third husband. "I really don't know. I've forgotten his name," she told the judge. She said her third husband was a Scotchman—she remembered that, all right—and they were married in France, she recalled, but she couldn't remember his name.

Girl Flyers Seek Endurance Mark

A few moments after this picture had been taken, Edna May Cooper and Bobbie Trout took to the air over Los Angeles in their plane, "Lady Rolph," in an effort to stay aloft several weeks and set an endurance flight record for women that would stand for years to come. This picture shows them as Miss Cooper's mother was bidding them goodbye. In the photo are Miss Cooper (at the left), Mrs. Cooper (center) and Miss Trout.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by William Braucher

Football Slaves
The revolt of the football players at Pennsylvania, where Coach E. F. Simmons was painted as a sort of Simon Magus cracking the whip over the heads of the toiling millions, would be more serious, if it would break out in more places than one.

As it is, it is hard to fathom. Can it be possible that of all the coaches in the United States, only E. F. Simmons was cruel and unusual in his driving of the men under him? Or is it likely that only at Penn are the players so high spirited that they refuse to bend their necks to the yoke of dictatorial discipline?

The football world, which is inhabited by a large part of the public, is offered at Penn the picture of overworked young men, lashed to stumps that breaking backs will not stand by a snarling and relentless coach. Finally a couple of male Joan of Arcs stand up, refuse to submit to such domination any longer and lead their fellows out of the house of bondage.

Terrible things must have happened at Pennsylvania.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
JOE TINKER lost a pile of spinach in Florida real estate . . . and wants a job now so badly that he may become an American Association umpire next season. . . . Bucky Harris had some old men about him when he piloted Washington to a couple of pennants . . . Mogridge, Leibold, Peckinpauz, Rice, Judge, Ruel, Johnson and Zachary . . . now he is taking on a few veterans at Detroit, such as Wally Schang and Jumping Joe Dugan. . . . The city council of St. Petersburg, Fla., has named the town ball park "Huggins Field." . . . The surveyors have been busy in Philadelphia since the baseball season ended . . . and now come forth with the startling announcement that Babe Ruth hit a home run there that traveled 481 feet on the fly . . . 11 of those would be a mile, and then some.

Roper Rumbles
OUT of the echoes of the Penn confusion of tongues comes the sibilant voice of Bill Roper.

"In five years," says Bill, "intensive and prolonged training for college football teams will kill the sport. This business of having six, eight or 10 weeks of practice is all wrong."

When the hue and cry against rigorous football training is heard, naturally the people on the outside looking in are invited thereby to inspect the football system. Any inspection of the football system should begin at the spot where an indictment is most likely to be returned. If the government should start a national investigation of crime, it hardly would be propitious to send a pack of sleuths to some isolated county where a 20-year-old boy once slew his grandmother, especially if the man with the hot leads and hard voices would be detailed to one of the mild-mannered fathers of the nation, let us say, for the sake of example, Chicago.

It ought to be easy to return some sort of indictment against Chicago, crime because, if you believe what you hear, they have a crime on their hands there once in a while.

The Football Center
SIMILARLY, in inspecting the football system, is it not logical to start at Notre Dame? Is there any other school where more football is played, or where it is more popular per capita among the students?

No cry of revolt is heard at Notre Dame. Knute Rockne sends his men through vigorous spring training that is animated by the spirit of competition. Most of the work, in fact, is done in the spring, during which period the coach gets a line on his playing talent. In the fall, a schedule of games that would put the Penn petitioners to shame is gone through.

If there were a football grind to criticize, surely it would reach the point of the intolerable at Notre Dame, where week after week the players are called upon to face the stiffest kind of opposition. What is the inference? Or, can an inference be drawn from such a football school as Notre Dame?

Can the defects at Penn be charged to the whole system of football in the United States?

Reed Urges Audit of All Counties

State Comptroller Recommends That 34 Exempt Counties Be Included

LITTLE ROCK.—(U.P.)—What is good for 41 counties is good for the other 34, in the matter of auditing their affairs by the state comptroller's department.

That is the conclusion drawn from two years of operation of Act No. 302 of 1929 by Comptroller Howard Reed, who has published recommendations for changes in administration of county fiscal affairs, which will be embodied in bills to be introduced in the coming legislative session.

Mr. Reed's recommendations include that requiring all of the 75 counties to be regularly audited by his department, the county audit department of which is in charge of J. Bryan Sims.

Probably the most outstanding change Mr. Reed suggested was that of abolishing the office of county collector and making the county treasurer collector of all taxes and any other funds. Such a change, he admitted, probably would require a constitutional amendment.

Under the present setup, he said, the county pays enormous fees to the collector for collecting taxes, and then another enormous fee to the treasurer for receiving the tax money from the collector.

From $500,000 to $800,000 annually could be saved taxpayers through the change, Mr. Reed said.

One of his recommendations to be contained in a bill is that of placing all county officers on a salary basis, instead of on the fee basis.

Red tape in taxation affairs, Mr. Reed believes, is appalling.

"A saving of at least $50,000 annually can be made by eliminating a lot of red tape and useless work from the tax books," he said. "We would then have a simple and accurate record. We are of the opinion there could not be found in the state, either a county collector or clerk, who could not offer a far better and cheaper method of making the tax books."

"Our entire system of collection of taxes is antiquated, inefficient and cost far too much for the service rendered. We begin with the assessor, board of equalization, quoting error, county court, the clerk then makes the tax books, then passes them on to the collector, and after collection the money goes to the treasurer, and from the treasurer to the depositories. At different times the same money is under three bonds, and six different agencies receive monies for some service incident to collection of taxes. The tax assessor, being a full salaried official now, could complete the tax books and save $100,000 annually."

Mr. Reed recommended the county fiscal year be changed from November 1 to January 1, "thereby preventing retiring officers from spending out of proportion and leaving their offices to their successors with a depleted appropriation."

If all the 75 counties are included in the compulsory audit bill, Mr. Reed said he would further recommend that county accounts be checked quarterly.

By making frequent trips to each county, he said, his department will help to solve their problems and assist new officials in the proper discharge of their duties.

Mr. Reed believes also that a uniform system of accounting be provided for the counties.

He recommended also a change in the bonding law, whereby county officials would be required to give a surety bond. He would do away with the personal bondsmen for county officers, a system he said costs the state hundreds of thousands of dollars annually through loss.

Wales' Pal Buys Fast Airplane in America

DETROIT.—(U.P.)—An elaborately equipped single-engine monoplane, recently shipped to London from the Detroit Aircraft Corporation, is understood to be for the use of Commander Glen Kidston, millionaire British sportsman and his friend, the Prince of Wales.

Although Commander Kidston, when he was here preparing plans for the plane several months ago, would not discuss the project, it is understood that he and the Prince are planning a flight through Africa for hunting and exploration purposes.

The Lockheed plane cost $32,000. Commander Kidston purchased it as a gift for his friend, the Prince of Wales.

It has a speed of 185 miles per hour, carries seven persons and is fitted with radio, night flying equipment, and elaborate upholstery.

Auto Industry Ranks Second in France

PARIS.—(U.P.)—Nearly half a million people are employed in the rapidly expanding French automobile industry, official figures show.

There are 110,000 men in the workshops, 45,000 in accessory factories, 25,000 in the tire departments, 90,000 are test chauffeurs, 30,000 are agents, 120,000 are repair shop staff.

The automobile industry now ranks second in France for the number of people employed. Railroads top the list. Coal mines are a bad third.

Woman Settles With Thieves for Two Bills

CLEVELAND, O.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Marjorie Bradley, Cleveland, preferred to be generous than to be robbed when two prowlers recently appeared at her home while she was alone with her three small children.

Awakened by the noise of someone trying to pry open the kitchen window, Mrs. Bradley called out:

"What do you want?"

"All of your money and your fur coat," was the reply from below.

Opening up her bedroom window, the woman tossed out two ten dollar bills. Snatching them up, the two marauders fled.

BLACK-DRAUGHT BROUGHT RELIEF

Saved Needless Suffering, Says Lady Who Used To Have Severe Headaches.

Columbia, S. C.—"I have taken Black-Draught for thirty or more years and considered it a family medicine," writes Mrs. Luther Bann, 815 Eighth Street, this city.

"I gave it to my children for colds and children's ailments. It is very helpful. I took it myself for constipation and indigestion."

"I used to have very severe headaches that would leave me weak and tremble. I found that Black-Draught relieves this, so I do not let myself get without it. Black-Draught has saved me a lot of needless suffering. I am glad to recommend it to my friends and neighbors."

Thedford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable cathartic or laxative medicine, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots. Black-Draught is finely powdered, which enables the juices of the stomach to extract its medicinal properties in an easy, natural way.

This medicine has been in use since 1835, with constantly increasing popularity because of the good it has done to the men, women and children who have taken it.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Investigating the murder of STANLEY BELM and DEXTER SPRAGUE, who he thinks were brothers in blackmail, "DUNDEE" goes to New York and learns that QUANTA LEIGH was married to "MATTHEW BELM" in 1919, was soon deserted, but apparently not divorced. From STANLEY BELM, since then, he learns that Nita's picture was pinned with a story about the outside of ANITA LEE.

Dundee writes to PENNY GRAY, district attorney's secretary, and learns from her that the whole story was printed in Hamilton, but that no execution of the warrant had appeared. After this story appeared, four of Dundee's possible suspects married: PETER DUNN, a TRACER, MILES and JOHN DRAKE, the same year, and JUDITH MAR- tinez, mother of the death weapon, almost seven years later.

Nita deposited $10,000 in cash in Hamilton, and Dundee wonders if she was collecting "black money" from a husband who had married Nita, thinking her dead. Dundee feels this is the real lead, and from the idea of interest- ing further vague scandals. Looking for records of Nita's mar- riage, Dundee finds nothing in New York, but realizes that she might have married in Connecticut. New York, and Dundee, on his way home in response to a dra- matic wire from the district at- torney, made to his dinner that he had made revelations to the news- papers which have probably put the murder on his mind. At home, Dundee finds a note under his door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

BONNIE DUNDEE set his travel- ing bag upon a chair and picked up the sealed envelope which bore no other inscription than his name. The note it contained was on paper as plain as the envelope, was typed and unsigned:

"If Special Investigator Dundee will consult page 410 of the latest WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA, he will find a tip which should aid him materially in solving the two murder cases which seem to be proving too difficult for his in- experience."

A very grin at the unfriendly gibe of his anonymous correspondent was just twisting his lips when a double knock, with which he had become very familiar, sounded on the living room door, which he had not completely closed.

"Come in, Belle!"

A morose, slack-mouthed mulatto girl in ancient felt slippers slipped into the room.

"Howdy, Mistah Dundee," Belle greeted him flatly. "You got back, like the paper said you would, didn't yuh? And I ain't sayin' I ain't glad! Dat parrot o' yours is a Gawd's own nuisance— nippin' at mah fingahs, an' screech- in' his fool head off. . . . Course I ain't sayin' it's his fault, keepin' dat young gen'man on de secon' flo' awake las' night. . . . But lak I say to Mistah Wilson, when he lights into me dis mawnin', runnin' off at de mouf 'cause I to'got to put Cap'n's covah on his cage las' night, I ain't de onliest one what foggets in dis house. . . . Comin' home Gawd knows when an' leavin' de front do' unlocked de rest o' de night, so's bugglers and murderers and Gawd knows who could walk right in hyer—"

Dundee, itching to consult his own copy of "Who's Who," flung a glance at the parrot's cage, in- tending to pacify the mournful girl by scolding his "Watson" roundly. But he changed his mind and con- sidered the chambermaid instead.

"Just tell Mr. Wilson that for once he's wrong. You did not for- get to cover Cap'n's cage," Belle, Look!"

The girl's dull black eyes bulged as they took in the cage, complet- ly swathed in a square of dark silk.

"Gawd's sake, Mistah Dundee!" she ejaculated. "I didn't put dat covah on dat bird's cage! An' neithah did Mis' Bowen, 'cause she been laid up with rheumatiz eveh since you left, an' eveh las' evehdurn' (thing in dis ol' house has been let to me to do!"

"Then I suppose the indignant Mr. Wilson came up and covered Cap'n' himself," Dundee suggested, crossing the room to the bookcase which stood within reaching dis- tance of his big leather-covered arm-chair.

"Jilm!" Belle snorted. "How he gonna get in hyer widout no key? 'Sides, he'd a-to' me if'n—"

"Belle, how many times must I ask you not to misplace my things?" Dundee cut in irritably, and was tired of the discussion, and angry that his copy of "Who's Who" was missing from its cus- tomary place in the bookcase.

"Me? . . . I ain't teched none o' yeh things, 'cep'n to dis 'em and lay 'em down whar I foun' 'em," Belle retorted.

Dundee looked about the room, then his eyes alighted upon the missing book, lying upon a tapestry draped shelf that extended across the top of an old-fashioned hair- rest, set high in the wall be- tween the two windows. The thick red volume lay close against the wall, its gold-lettered "rib" facing the room.

"Belle, tell me the truth, and I shall not be angry: did you put that red book on that shelf?" Dundee asked, his voice steady and kindly in spite of his excitement.

"Nossuh! I ain't teched it!"

"And you did not put the cover over my parrot's cage, although I had tipped you well to feed Cap'n and cover him at night," Dundee said severely.

"I gotta hear o' wuk to do—"

"And you say that Mr. Wilson, one of the two young men on the second floor, left the front door un- locked when he came in last night?" Dundee asked. "Does he admit it?"

"Yassuh," Belle told him flatly. "He say he was tired when he got home 'bout midnight, an' he cleah to'got to turn de key in de do' an' shoot de bolt."

"Thanks, Belle. That will be all now," and Dundee did a great deal to dispel the chambermaid's gloom by presenting her with a dollar bill.

When she had gone, the detective read the note again, then looked at it and its envelope more closely. They had a strangely familiar look.

... Suddenly he jerked open a drawer of his desk, on which his new noiseless portable typewriter stood, selected a sheet of plain white bond, and rolled it into the machine. Noiselessly he tapped out a copy of the strange, taunting message.

Yes! The left-hand margin was identical, the typing and its degree of blackness were identical, and the paper on which he had made the copy was exactly the same as that on which the original had been written.

THE truth ached into his mind. It was no coincidence that he had a copy of the very book to which his unknown correspondent referred him. For the note had been written in this very room, on stationery conveniently at hand, on the noiseless typewriter which had been far more considerate about not betraying the intruder than had the parrot whose slumbers had been disturbed.

"But why did my unknown friend risk arrest as a burglar if he wanted to give me an honest tip?" Dundee remarked aloud to the parrot, who croaked an irrele- vant answer:

"Bad Penny! Bad Penny!"

"I'm afraid, my dear Watson, that those words will not be so helpful in this case as they were when your mistress was murdered," Dundee assured his parrot absently, for he was studying the peculiar situation from every angle.

"Another question, Cap'n—why did the unknown bother to take my 'Who's Who' out of the bookcase, where I should normally have looked for it, and put it on that particular shelf?"

Warily, for his scalp was prick- ling with a premonition of danger, Dundee crossed the room to the shelf, but his hand did not reach out for the red book, which might have been expected to solve one problem, at least. "Why the shelf?" he asked himself again. Why not the desk top, or the mantelpiece, or the smoking table beside the big armchair?

The shelf, with its drapery of rather old silk tapestry, offered no answer in itself, for it held nothing except the red book, a Chinese bowl, and a humidor of tobacco. And beneath the shelf was nothing but the old-fashioned register, the opening covered with a screwed-on metal screen which was a mass of big holes to permit the escape of hot air when the fur- nace was going in the winter. . . .

Suddenly Dundee stooped and stared with eyes that were widened with excitement and a certain amount of horror. Then he rose, and, standing far to one side, picked up the fat volume which lay on the shelf. As he had expected, a bullet whizzed noiselessly across the room and buried itself in the plaster of the wall opposite—a bul- let which would have plowed through his own heart if he had obeyed his first impulse and gone directly to the shelf to obey the in- structions in the note.

But more had happened than the whizzing flight of a bullet through one of the holes of the hot-air reg- ister. The "Who's Who" had been jerked almost out of Dundee's hand before he had lifted the heavy vol- ume many inches from the shelf. Coincidental with the disappear- ance of a bit of white string which had been pinned to a thin page of the book was a metallic clatter, followed swiftly by the faint sound of a bump far below.

DROPPING "Who's Who" to the floor, Dundee flung open his living room door and raced down three flights of stairs. He brought up, panting, at the door of the base- ment. It was not locked and in another minute he was standing before the big hot-air furnace. Above the fire box was a big metal compartment—the reservoir for the heated air. And set into the reser- voir, to conduct the heat to the regions above, were three huge pipes.

With strength augmented by ex- citement, Dundee tugged and tore at one of the pipes until he had dislodged it. Then, thrusting his hand into the heat reservoir, he groped until he had found what he had known must be there—Judge Marshall's automatic, with the Maxim silencer screwed upon the end of its short nose.

At last he held in his hands the weapon with which Nita Leigh Selim and Dexter Sprague had been murdered.

The ingeniousness of his own at- tempted murder moved him to such profound admiration that he could scarcely feel resentment. If, in the excitement of hunting for a prom- ised clue, he had gone directly to the shelf, standing in front of the hole in the register into which the end of the silencer had been jammed, so that it showed scarcely at all, even to eyes looking for it, he would now have been dead. And the gun and silencer, after hurling down the big hot-air pipe behind the register, could have lain hidden for months, even years, in the heat reservoir of the furnace.

With the weapon carefully wrapped in his handkerchief, Dun- dee went up the stairs almost as swiftly as he had gone down them, meeting no one on the way to his rooms on the top floor.

"My most heartfelt thanks to you, Cap'n!" he greeted his parrot. "If you had not squawked last night and so frightened the murderer that he made the vital error of covering your cage, I should never have annoyed you again with my Sherlock ruminations on cases which do not interest you in the slightest."

The parrot cackled hoarsely, but Dundee paid him scant attention. He picked up the now harmless "Who's Who" and turned to page 410, a corner of which had disap- peared with the string which was still fastened to the hair-trigger hammer of the Colt's 32. Very clever and very simple! The mur- derer of two people and the would- be murderer of a third had had only to unscrew the metal covering of the register, wedge the end of the silencer into one of the many holes, replace the screws, and paste the end of the string to a page of the book he had selected as the one most likely to appeal to a detective as a clue source. . . .

No, wait! He had had to do more! Dundee bent and examined the metal cover of the register. The circumference of the hole the mur- derer had chosen as the one which would be directly in front of Dun- dee's heart gleamed brightly. It had been necessary to enlarge it considerably. The murderer had left a trace after all!

But the book was open in Dun- dee's hands and his eyes rapidly scanned page 410. And he found what the murderer had not ex- pected him to live to read, but which he had counted on as an ex- planation of the note which the po- lice would have puzzled over. If all had gone well with his scheme. . . .

Clews Sought in Girl Usher's Murder

Washington police have instituted a widespread search for the "phantom slayer" of 19-year-old Beulah Limerick, a theater usher. She is shown at the right in a recent photo. Robert F. Langdon, upper left, a patrolman, was ar- rested for questioning after his fellow officers had become suspicious of his unusual dexterity in uncovering clues surrounding the case. He later was released. William H. Limerick, lower left, a brother of the slain girl, also was questioned by police. The girl's death apparently had been due to nat- ural causes, and it was not until her body was being prepared for burial that an undertaker discovered a bullet hole in her head.

Quits Business at 61 to Be an Artist

More than 40 years ago the late John La Farge, one of America's foremost artists, discouraged his son, Oliver H. F. La Farge, from taking up painting as a profession. After a varied career including prospecting, ranching, banking and finally a high post in a large New York investment company, Oliver La Farge found himself independent wealthy—but with unshaken artistic ambitions. So he has retired from business and has announced his intention of devoting all his time to art. He is pictured above with one of his earlier works which are on public exhibition.

Judges Seek More Money For Roads

State Association to Ask Large Annual Fund Appropriation

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The Arkansas County Judges Association adopted a recommendation Friday for an annual state appropriation of $3,000,000 for county roads, and as an emergency measure, voted to request the state legislature to make available a large portion of the money immediately for relief of unemployment.

The recommendation was incorporated in the report of the special committee, which urged reform and economy, including abolition of the grand jury system, federal aid for farm-to-market roads, revision of the "ice system" and changes in convict handling by counties.

Submits Request Monday
The legislative recommendations will be submitted Monday when the general assembly convenes.

Under terms of the recommendation adopted Thursday, apportionment of the annual fixed sum for county road purposes was based on a tri-partite system.

One-third of the appropriation would be apportioned to each county without regard for population; one-third by area and one third by population. Actual bonded indebtedness of any county would have no place in consideration of the apportionment.

Economy was stressed in the recommendations so that counties might operate in the county five mill tax was deemed inadvisable.

Critique Penal Systems

Present convict and penal systems came in for a large portion of criticism and for the greatest proposed changes. The recommendations said much desired economy would be effected through changes in these systems.

Barbers to Give Free Haircuts to Poor Children

MARION, O.—(UP)—Children of unemployed in this city will not have to go without haircuts this winter, for the barbers have pledged their service free.

101 Ranch Owner Is Suing Tom Mix

Lawyers Say Cator Once Was Accused of Stealing Horses

NATCHEZ, Miss.—(AP)—The charge that Tom Mix, the cowboy motion picture actor, was accused of stealing a 20-year-old horse named "Bologna," before he entered the movies was made by attorneys for Colonel Zach T. Miller, owner of the 101 Ranch Shows, during trial here of a $50,000 breach of contract suit, brought by Miller against Mix.

The testimony was presented over the vigorous objection of Mix's lawyers, but attorneys for Miller said it would establish that Mix harbored malice against Miller, whom he believed responsible for the charge that Mix had stolen the horse.

Mix's divorced wife was on the stand when the charges were made. She said her maiden name was Olive Stokes and that she graduated from Ward Belmont at Nashville, Tenn. She told the court that she married Mix in 1909, but that she did not know when they were divorced but thought it was in California.

"Is a matter of divorce so trivial a thing you can't remember anything about it?" stormed Mix's lawyer.

"It was in my case," retorted the witness.

She said she was the mother of their daughter, Ruth, and testified to knowledge of the Miller-Mix agreement in which Miller says the cowboy-actor agreed to join his circus and backed out after he had advertised the attraction.

Colonel Miller contended he suffered a loss of $50,000 in gate receipts and damage to his reputation by being unable to put on the advertised act.

Power Projects Planned for State

Two New Dams and Power Plants to Be Constructed Soon

Missouri Power Company, in a letter to the Power Commission recently advised that it intends to build two dams on Spring River, in Fulton county Arkansas.

This project calls for one dam and one power plant to replace structures which were destroyed by floods and would generate a maximum of six hundred and fifty horsepower.

The second dam and power plant would generate twenty five hundred and fifty horsepower and be the completing link in a system of four dams. Total cost of the dams is estimated at three hundred and twenty thousand dollars.

A date for beginning the work was not announced in the communication.

Even Cut Price on One Dollar Bills Failed Him

LAWRENCE, Mass.—(UP)—John J. Hart, who runs an automobile accessories shop on South Union street, had a sale recently in which he offered his stock at genuine bargain prices.

Business failed to boom, so Hart decided to find out whether the buying public really knows a bargain when it sees one.

He placed a batch of $1 bills in his show window, and exhibited a sign announcing that the dollars had been marked down to 95 cents each.

But passersby either believed there was a "catch" in the offer, or that it wasn't worth the bother, and only a few availed themselves of the clear profit.

Jaywalker—So many people are struck by autos while alighting from street cars.

Street Car Official—Well, yes, but those people have paid their fares. It's this running over people who are waiting to get on that makes me mad.

Associated Gas and Electric System

Founded In 1852

96,500 Customers Have Invested $91,000,000

FOR several years Associated System customers have been offered from time to time the opportunity to invest in Associated securities. Their investments now total over $91,000,000.

The connection of the Southern Ice and Utilities Company with the Associated System brings a similar security offering to you. Beginning January 8 any of our employees will be prepared to explain the attractive investment features of the Associated Gas and Electric Company $6.50 Cumulative Preference Stock.

Growth Makes a Sound Investment

It is the growing use of the services rendered by the Associated System, electricity, ice, and gas that creates this investment opportunity for you. New plants must be constructed to meet growing demands, and additions must be made to existing ones. Associated securities are backed by services that are increasing health and convenience in homes and productivity in factories.

2,500 New Investors a Month

27,385 new investors in 1930—growth to a total of 217,524 during a period marked by investment hesitancy—indicates the public appreciation of the stability and growth possibilities of the Associated System. If you wish to align yourself with the conservative investors who are securing a regular and reliable income from sound Associated securities write, phone, or call at the nearest Associated System office.
